Welcome to the Oxfordshire Local Skills Dashboard

People need labour market information such as workforce trends, skill requirements and job vacancies to help them make informed education, training or career decisions.

This dashboard has been developed in partnership with OxLEP and Oxfordshire County Council to provide key information on Oxfordshire's labour market and skills landscape, accompanying the: OxLEP Local Skills Report and Plan.

How to Use

Use the navigation bar to navigate between the main themed pages on this dashboard. In each main theme there are also a number of sub themes which can be navigated to through the sub-menu.

Technical and Economic Development Users

The information can also support a variety of users to identify how the economy of Oxfordshire functions in terms of labour supply and demand, through the prepared charts and by exploring and formulating the full data sets directly.

About Oxfordshire

In 2022, Oxfordshire was home to over 725,000 people (Census 2021), with more than 34,500 active trading companies. It contains five local authority districts: Cherwell, Oxford, South Oxfordshire, Vale of White Horse and West Oxfordshire. These have key urban centres (cities and towns), such as Oxford City, Banbury and Didcot, as well as significant areas of rural (countryside) landscape.

Oxfordshire sits in a strategic (important), well-connected location in the UK. It has strong transport links in the Bristol-Birmingham-London triangle and is an essential part of the UK's Golden Triangle (London, Cambridge and Oxford) for research and innovation.

Oxfordshire is one of the strongest economies in the UK with the ability to recover and adapt quickly. It is benefitted by some of the best research organisations in the world, alongside pioneering, ground-breaking businesses.

There is also a strong visitor economy historically based around Oxford, Blenheim Palace and Bicester Shopping Village.
